Odds and Ends of Gossip.

'Fore Daddy'd go to Bed.

Each night for fifty years or more,
'Fore daddy'd go to bed,
He'd come 'round tryin' every door
From front hall to the shed,
And then he'd blow the candle out
And set it on the bin,
And, by and by, you'd hear him shout,
"Is everybody in?"

And if it happened one of us
Young fellers still was out,
He'd walk aroun' and fret and fuss
And say he had no doubt
That somethin' had befallen us
Or we'd fell into sin,
But when he'd hear ther trampin' feet
He'd say, "Thank God, you're in!"

And now I reckon he's up thar,
Awaitin' day by day,
To bid us welcome from afar
If we should go that way;
But one thing a certain, he won't rest
Until his kith and kin
Have passed the portals of the blest
And all are gathered in.
—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

SMALL POX—The small pox situation has been the talk of the town and county for the past few days and a great many wild and false reports have been circulated regarding it. In another column we give a full and complete account of all that there is to the small-pox question in Springfield. We do not believe in the policy adopted by some of our contemporaries in neighboring counties of attempting to suppress the epidemic by suppressing the news of it or deny ing the existence of the disease. The suppressing of the news in the county paper don't stop the disease and it don't even kill the "scare" for where no authentic report is given out regarding the trouble there are sure to spring up exaggerated reports and false alarms regarding the state of affairs. Springfield has thus far had one case of small-pox and all the facts and particulars regarding it are to be found in this issue of the NEWS LEADER. If we have fifty cases,—which is something un reasonable to expect—our readers will be given all of the particulars and facts. Some one may say that it will hurt the town to advertise the fact. We don't believe it. People in this enlightened age want to know the truth. This little stir about a case of small-pox is not going to kill the town. It don't amount to anything anyway and the more people know about it the less of a bug-a-boo it gets to be. Let's all know about it and take vigorous measures to stamp it out.

INCONVENIENT — It not so much the danger about small pox, for nowadays it is of a mild type but rather other disagreeable features that make people dread it. In the first place it is such an awfully inconvenient disease. If one could have it and be nursed and receive the same care and treatment as he is given in other sicknesses half of the fear of the contagion would be removed. But to be cut off from friends and from human sympathy, to be isolated from the world, as it were, is hard for anyone to bear and adds greatly to the dread of small-pox.

INDIFFERENT — There is a noticeable indifference of late on the part of the farmers of this, and evidently other counties as to tobacco raising and the statement is frequently heard that this will be last crop for many growers. How many mean what they say or what the effect on the yield will be in the future remains to be seen but the decrease in the planting of the weed is quite perceptible this year in Washington county and reports from other counties thoughout the State especially in the Blue Grass section indicate a corresponding falling off There are several reasons to account for this, one being unsatisfactory prices, but the main reason is to be found in the rise in prices of horses and other live stock as well as higher values for other crops which are raised with less labor and trouble than tobacco. The Blue Grass farms and those of the counties on the borders of the Blue Grass while well adapted to produce fine tobacco, were never intended by nature to be used as such for the simple reason that the land seems to be natural home for the blooded horse and highbred stock of other kinds. The depression in prices for horses and other stock which prevailed several years back caused the farmers to cease breeding them and then came the invasion of the tobacco tenants. Beautiful blue grass fields and woodland disappeared and the virgin soil was turned over for the cultivation of tobacco. Fine stock barns were reconstructed and used for the convenience of the tobacco grower. Within the memory even of some of the younger generation Washington county could boast of some as fine cattle and horses as could be found in the State and the farmer found a market at home in the paunches of his cattle and hogs for his corn. The tobacco era changed it all for the time but we believe there is a tendency to go back to the good old methods and allow the tobacco growing era to shift back to the hill counties where it rightfully belongs.

A GENTLE HINT.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature,—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day,—it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hoarseness, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup, or any disease of the Throat or Lungs its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Heartburn

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich heartburn is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily diffested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let six hours elapse between meals and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, indicating that you have eaten too much, take one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the heartburn may be avoided. Market Lower.

The market this week was decidedly irregular and taking it all together was not as satisfactory as the week previous. On nothing do we think bidding ruled as satisfactory as the week previous, and as compared with the first of the month showed a quotable decline. On Wednesday and Thursday several satisfactory sales were made, and on a few desirable crops a tendency was shown to better values, but other than this the market was without animation and showed a decided tendency to lower prices. The decline noted on last week on the common grades showed perceptible this week and we think the market quotably lower on the common grades. The bidding indicated buyers are firm'y of the opinion the crop of Burley planted is up to last year and has been put out under favorable conditions, and no necessity exists for supporting advanced prices on tobacco. —Weed.

Crop Report.

U. S. Crop report for Kentucky under date of June 5th says: The week was warm with local showers in central and eastern portions of the State; the western portion was very dry. Tobacco has improved rapidly during the week and is now quite promising. Private reports from the Burley sections say the entire crop has been set, under favorable conditions, but the planting has not been as large as the year previous The Dark crop section reports little progress for the week, but as the crop had been planted before the past week unless the dry weather continues this will have no effect on the crop.

TOO ZEALOUS TIGER

Willert Beale says in his reminiscences called "The Light of Other Days" that a certain man named Tiger, permanently injured "his dog" as a life saving apparatus at sea.

We were at Brighton together and I was bathing on a boat at some distance from shore, Tiger was watching proceedings with unusual interest, and when I dived he sprang in after me. I rose from my plung and the dog seized me very gently by the neck.

Then with his fore paws on my shoulders he kept me under the water. We had a terrific struggle. The more I fought the more energetic he became, although he attacked me severely.

I managed at last to reach the boat and supported myself by the gunwhale. We then came to terms. Tiger finding that I was not in danger, as he supposed, left me most gracefully and struck out.—Youths Companion

Prisoners Dream Came True.

The happiest person in Boyle county is confined in the jail at Danville. It is Eugene Montgomery, the alleged child murderer, who was to have been hanged last Wednesday. His case was decided in the Court of Appeals Saturday, and a new trial of the case ordered. Montgomery has been very nervous, and almost took sick for two or three weeks, but when told of the decision he kicked up it once and eat the first hearty meal he has eaten since he was sentenced. He said: "I was just naturally scared so bad I couldn't eat. I thought I was a gone coon, but I feel now and hope I will come out better next time." He said that on Wednesday night he had great difficulty in getting to sleep, but when he did he dreamed that the Court at Frankfort had decided his case and given him a new trial. He told the prisoners of his dream as soon as he was awake, and is so impressed on him that he said he was not surprised when he was told of the decision. The next term of the Boyle court meets in September, when the case will be tried again.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Cure for Cholera Infantum—Never Known to Fail

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it fail.—Mrs Curtis Baker, Brookwalter Ohio. For sale by Haydon & Robertson.

A household necessity is just what Dr. Bell's Anti-Pain is to those who know of its wonderful merits as a cure for Colic, Cholera, Diarrhoea and Flux. It does not tie up or clog the bowels but drives the germs of the disease and aids nature in restoring health.

An Untouched Toddy.

In one of the leading hotels in Louisville is a glass of toddy, which, though mixed over eleven years ago, has never been drunk. It was on the night of March 28, 1890, that three gentlemen—friends of long standing—one from Harrodsburg one from Bowling Green and the other from Henderson, met at hotel in question. After meetings, they repaired to the bar and the drinks were ordered. Two of the gentlemen had swallowed their liquor and the other had raised his glass to his lips when the great cyclone came down upon the city in its devastating violence, and pandemonium reigned. Untouched, he passed the glass of whisky back to the bartender and said: "Set it aside for me." The three men visited the various ruins throughout the stricken city saw men, women and children dragged in unrecognizable masses from the ruins and listened to the moans of the living and the groans of the dying. Some hours afterwards, they were again at their hotel, which had escaped the wrath of the elements. Again the drinks were called for and the man behind the counter reminded the Bowling Green gentleman that his toddy had been aside for him and placed it on the counter. "Put it back and keep it till I call for it," said the Park City man, "and if you charge a cent for it, I'll pay it, for I never intend to take another drink until I take that one." Though he has been in Louisville a hundred times since, the toddy is still under the counter awaiting his order. At the time of the incident above related, he began the pace that kills, but since he has cut off liquor he has climbed the ladder rapidly and is now one of the prominent men in the "Pennerite" section of the State. Two of his sons will graduate next spring from one of the leading colleges in the state.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Cider For Small Pox

Chicago Inter Ocean: A number of physicians have just completed exhaustive tests and found satisfactory results from the use of apple cider as a preventative and cure for smallpox.

The past winter, an unusual severe one in the Southwest, has been a widespread epidemic of smallpox in the extreme southern part of Arizona and Mexico. Six weeks ago as attendant at the pesthouse in Juarez discovered by accident the use of pure apple cider was helping his patients, one of them having received a quantity from the East and distributed it among his fellow-sufferers. Dr. Wood and Kaull made tests with relief on their patients and found a most gratifying result.

A pint each day, in doses each hour, drove away the eruption in from five to fifteen days a 10 patients were entirely cured and discharged within a month. Other tests were made among the Mexican residents along international line, where there were cases of a more violent nature. In every instance where cider was used cures were affected, and 50 barrels more of the apple juice have been ordered from Illinois and New York to carry experiments further into Mexico.

Any advised easier is authorized to guarantee Banner Salve for tetter, eczema, piles sprains, scalds, burns, ulcers and any open or old sore. Wood & Wimsatt.

The way to cure diarrhoea or intestinal pains is to use a remedy that will stop fermentation and remove the cause. Dr. Bell's Anti-Pain will do this. By virtue of its antiseptic qualities it destroys the disease germs.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm which is agreeably aromatic. Washington Medal

Mr. W. S. Mitchell, of Bedford, this county, has left at the editorial office a unique curiosity, the scraps of a Washington medal. This medal is the size of a silver dollar and is made of a light metal resembling pewter. On one side of it is a bust of General Washington, and on the same George Washington encircling it. The other contains the following inscriptions: "Gen. of the American Army, 1775; resigned commission, 1783; elected President of United States, 1789; reelected, 1793."

The medal, which is very much blackened and defaced, has the appearance of having been in a fire and was found by Mr. Mitchell's son while playing in the ground, where, in pioneer days, stood a block house used for protection against the Indians. This fort was known as Edwin's Station and was near present town of Burton, and the nearest fortified post to Bedford's settlement. At the station the women and children were left for protection while the men went forth in the surrounding forests to build homes.

Later this station was burned to the ground and the land belonged to one of the pioneers who had served under Washington in the war of the Revolution.—Bardstown Standard.

Want Our Horses

A commission consisting of three men appointed by the Mikado of Japan has arrived in the United States to investigate our horses and cattle with a view to buying. They are now in Chicago and will come from there to Kentucky. Japan wants to improve her cavalry service and thinks American horses, and especially Kentucky horses, are needed to that end.—Exchange.

The present hot wave is General throughout the United States. Reports say that the intense heat claimed 428 victims Tuesday, and temperature records have been broken in a number of cities throughout the country. In Greater New York alone there were 255 deaths. While Philadelphia reported 52 fatalities and Baltimore and Pittsburg, including Allegheny, had fifty each. Local thunder-storms cooled the atmosphere in many cities, but the relief was only temporary. The Weather Bureau holds out no promise of permanent decrease in temperature at present. The hottest city in the country was Phoenix, Arizona, where the tempature registered 106 degrees.

The second advertising trip of the Louisville men through Western Kentucky was begun auspiciously Tuesday, and although the weather was extremely warm there was no lack of enthusiasm at the towns through which the special train passed. From the first stop of the day at Vine Grove until Cerulean Springs was reached at night the party of merchants and manufacturers was accorded a hearty welcome. Stops were made Tuesday at Vine Grove, Leitchfield, Caneyville, Beaver Dam, Rockport, Central City, Greenville, Dawson and Cerulean Springs, where the night was spent. Yesterday Princeton, Paducah, Mayfield and Fulton were visited.

The vigorous action of the authorities and the citizens in dealing with the little smallpox scare in our town, is to be commended. As soon the case was discovered every reasonable measure was adopted to prevent a further spread of the disease, and it is to be hoped that the efforts have been successful.

A Novel Wedding.

A bicycle wedding took place in Norfolk, England, the other day. The bride and bridegroom, bridesmaids and guests, making a party of about 20, all rode to the church on gayly decorated machines. The bride was in spotless white, nor were the orange blossoms and the veil left out. The bridesmaids, also in white, were crowned with wreaths of pink roses. Fortunately Dame Nature smiled on the scene.

and recently shipped a large lot to England. She says she does not know exactly how many dolls she has made, but the number would run into the thousands.

Miss Morrison uses about as many husks as are found on an ordinary ear of corn to make each doll. The cob serves as the body. The face is covered with a husk, and the features are painted on. Corn silk is used for the hair. The dress is a full skirt of husks, with a shirt waist and an Eton jacket. A cornhusk sash encircles the waist. The hat is a big scoop bonnet trimmed with tassels. In her right hand the doll holds a dainty parasol made of firm straw, with a particularly silky husk for a cover.

Brooches especially designed to fasten the belt or the blouse in front are one of the latest novelties. The prevailing style is a turquoise set in dull gold, and the size seems to depend on the capacity of the purse.

Bernhardt on American Women.

Sarah Bernhardt has given her opinions on the American women to an interviewer whom she saw between the acts of "L'Aiglon" at the Theatre de la Monnaie at Brussels the other evening. Some of her assertions are far from the truth, but they are interesting nevertheless. The great tragedienne is entirely favorable to the transatlantic method of female education. "I find the American women far superior to our women," she said. "The American woman leads a very different life—a life of which we have no idea in France. The sexes have absolutely distinct and separate spheres of life. The woman is an intellectual being in the widest sense of the word. Her husband works for her at his workshop, factory or office from 6 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock in the evening, while the wife is at her club or engaged in sports, literature, science, music or art. In America home scarcely exists. People live in hotels or employ housekeepers. The American woman is pretty and dresses in good taste. She marries as late as possible, and that is easy to understand, as she enjoys absolute freedom, and, what is more, the laws are all in her favor. In Europe girls have only one object in life, and that is to escape from the family hearth and get married. In America they are in no hurry to enter the bonds of matrimony because to them marriage brings an obligation from which the unmarried are free." To sum up, Mme. Bernhardt is convinced of the tremendous superiority of the American woman over her French sister.

Mrs. Craig's Important Position.

Mrs. R. L. Craig of Los Angeles has been made the chairman of the local board of directors to formulate plans for the sixth biennial meeting of the General federation to be held in Los Angeles next April. This is one of the most important offices in any of the preparatory committees, and the fact that Mrs. Craig's selection gives general satisfaction wherever she is well known indicates that a fortunate choice has been made. Mrs. Craig is a leading member of the Friday Morning club of Los Angeles and was the first president of the Civic league of the same place. Preliminary meetings of the board have already been held, at one of which the sentiment uttered by one of the board members that "Los Angeles is not the place to begin to economize in bestowing lavish entertainment upon the distinguished visitors" was enthusiastically indorsed. Clubwomen throughout the entire state of California are eagerly anticipating the visit of their club sisters and will undoubtedly give them a unique and memorable reception.

Collectors, Take Notice.

There should be solemn warning to the spoon collector in the statement of the Smith college girl who was recently arrested for stealing. "My first step was a fascinating experience," she is said to have declared, and by that first she fell. So may it not be with others who now are satisfied with pocketing table appointments from restaurants? They always say, these freaks, that they do it because it is such fun. But, following the present case, where may that fun not end? When they are looking at jewelry in a shop, it would get so exciting to see if they could pocket a diamond ring with no one being the wiser. It would be such sport to afterward flash the ring, the giver of which should remain a mysterious unknown.

It isn't a safe game at any time, and it isn't nice. That hasn't prevented the fair sex from indulging in it, but after this it is time that stopped.—New York Telegram.

Shall Women Smoke?

They have been discussing that old question of whether or not women shall smoke over in England, with the usual results. There are both pros and cons given—more of the latter than the former. From Girton college comes the strongest con. Girton says that it is smoking which makes fashionable women silly and inane, that it arrests physical and mental development and fills the prisons and reformatories, for "it is very detrimental to the moral tone of females." A doctor says that smoking injures women no more than men, and another man declares that the English are already becoming a race of pygmies because of the smoking habit among men, and if women go in for it the physique of the people is doomed. No one, however, says anything new, as there is nothing new to say.

French Girls and Physical Training.

"Physical education is becoming more and more popular," writes Th. Bentzon (Mme. Blanc), editor of Le Revue des Deux Mondes, of "A Girl's Life In France" in The Ladies' Home Journal. "Formerly nothing was taught but dancing and swimming. Riding was reserved for wealthy girls in Paris, although in the country it was more generally practiced. Now all gymnastic and calisthenic exercises are in favor, and a great many young ladies play tennis, skate or ride bicycles, as they do in England."

Just One Man Dressmaker.

According to one of the officers' wives who has returned for a home visit from Manila, there are now 200 American women in Manila for whom there is only one dressmaker. He is a Chinese. Recently he was arrested for smuggling, whereupon the 200 women began to intercede. If Sang were put in jail, wherewithal could they be clothed? Fortunately Sang proved himself not guilty.

The greater number of belts are shaped, and white calf and patent leather are among the best. The harness buckle is the buckle for these belts. Occasionally there is a buckle that is covered. Some of the belts have buckles on either side of the front and open at one of them. Suede and velvet belts are studded with metal.

Miss Belle Hyman of Chicago has been appointed a trustee of the Illinois Industrial Home For the Blind by Governor Yates. She has been blind since the age of 4 years, but is an accomplished musician and linguist. She is well known for her enthusiastic efforts to benefit the poor and sightless.

Rev. Clara E. Morgan, pastor of the Universalist church at Nunda, N. Y., delivered the address at the Memorial day exercises held in that town.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

AN ATLANTA NURSE TO SUPERINTEND IN A PARIS HOSPITAL.

The Girls of East India—The Girl With the Suit Case—She Was Decorated For Bravery—Pays to Sell Switches—Her Fortune In Dolls.

Miss Marie Louise Meier, who has been for some time one of the nurses at the Grady hospital and who is highly regarded by Atlanta physicians for her ability, has been appointed superintendent of nurses in the Hospital Lanneau du Chantel in Paris. She will leave Atlanta to assume the duties of her new position in the famous French sanitarium in December.

Miss Meier will be accompanied by Mrs. H. Jones, another trained nurse favorably known to Atlanta physicians. Mrs. Jones is at present employed at Stockard's sanitarium, on

MISS MARIE LOUISE MEIER.

Walton street. She will go to Paris as a pupil nurse under Miss Meier. She feels that she can better fit herself for the duties of a nurse abroad than in this country.

The appointment to the position of head nurse in the big Paris sanitarium is a decided compliment to Miss Meier's ability. The Lanneau du Chantel is one of the largest and best known institutions of its kind in France. On the hospital staff are famous surgeons and physicians. Many hundreds of patients are treated annually.

Miss Meier is a graduate nurse of the Jewish hospital in Cincinnati. Since last November she has been head nurse of the white charity wards at the Grady hospital. She resigned her position on May 1 and is taking a well earned rest preparatory to assuming her arduous duties in the French sanitarium.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Girls of East India.

The children of India are clothed with brass jewelry rather than with garments of cloth. They run wild, with little or no attention. At the age of 11 a Hindoo girl becomes a woman and then her liberty ceases. They can neither read, write nor sew, being taught only to cook a little, and they spend their time blacking their eyebrows, dyeing their finger nails red and decorating themselves with jewelry. In India the wealth of a man is gauged by the amount of jewelry he lavishes upon the women of his family.

When a girl is born, the first question asked is whom shall she marry. Every high caste girl must be wedded at 12, and to a man of her caste and her horoscope. He may be comparatively young, middle aged or old, immoral, diseased or brutal; it makes no difference if his caste and horoscope agree with hers. A woman in India is perfectly helpless.

She is generally married at 8 or 9, but does not become a member of her husband's family until she is 12. If it should chance that her husband die before that time, she becomes a child widow, the most despised of creatures. A curse is believed to be upon her, and if she goes the ordinary course she commits suicide in desperation. There are 72,000 child widows under 9 years of age in India.

There is no wooing or being won in India. Every girl over 12 is a wife or widow. There the mother-in-law reigns supreme. She rules with a high hand and a rod of iron.

The Hindoo who dies without a son believes he loses eternal life, and frequently mothers give their daughters to be nautch girls in the temples—the vilest life in the world—in the belief that they may appease the anger of the gods and have sons born to them.

American dolls, given as prizes in the Christian schools, and American fine tooth combs, the importance of which you must visit India to realize, are doing more to Christianize India than anything else.—Review of Reviews.

The Girl With the Suit Case.

The young woman with the suit case has lately received criticism in the newspapers as a good bit of a nuisance. It is said of her that she has no idea how to carry her burden to keep it out of the way and that she swings through town, along the street and in elevated and surface cars, impeding progress, banging other folks' anatomy and making herself rather generally disliked.

The further charge is made against her that her trail of discomfort is largely unnecessary, that she does not need the big case to carry the satchelful of belongings which are alleged to rattle around in it.

It is certainly true that the coat case young woman is very much in evidence, but it has not been suspected heretofore that she was other than her own enemy, for the occasional times when her case holds a bagatelle of belongings there are many more when it is packed to bursting and is a much too heavy burden to be undertaken by her.

Yet what, ask the girls—college girls and others—who appreciate the convenience of this luggage carrier, are we to do about it? In point of fact, the suit case to women is the same convenience that it is to men. It is a necessity of the present methods of transportation in a big city like New York.

A girl comes down from college for a dinner or a dance. Into this convenient box with handles goes her gown for the evening, and it is carried by her directly to the place where she will dress. To trust it to an expressman from a Jersey City train to an up town residence or from the Forty-second street station to Harlem or Brooklyn is risky for quick delivery. She knows, for she has tried it.

The girl going from town for a night in the suburbs takes equally in her hands the possibility of not seeing her frock till the next day unless she has been very forehanded in the sending off of the case. Until cheap cabs for long distances and pneumatic tubes for shunting luggage across the city in a few minutes are a fact the public will have to accept the suit case girl as the girl, alas, has now to accept and carry the case.—New York World.

She Was Decorated For Bravery.

For the first time in the history of the State university of Iowa a medal for bravery has been awarded to one of its young women students. The girl so decorated is Miss Carolyn Jarvis of Burlington, one of the most popular girls in the university.

Miss Jarvis' hobby is athletics. She is the champion basket ball and tennis player on the women's side of the university, a daily attendant in the gymnasium, an oarswoman and a fine swimmer. If she hadn't been strong and able to swim so well, one young man who was present when she received her medal a few days ago wouldn't have been there. In fact, there would have been no medal.

The girl's decoration for bravery was won on, or rather in, the river. A short time ago a number of the young women students at the university gave a canoeing party near Coralville. A squall came up just as the fun was at its height and capsized one of the canoes. In it were Miss Jarvis and R. M. Fagan, a student.

The man couldn't swim, and the rest of the party were too far away to help. He clung to the capsized boat and looked to his girl companion for aid. Her dress was caught on the rail of the canoe, and she couldn't free it, but that didn't frighten her.

The nearest shore was 150 feet away, and Miss Jarvis struck out for it, towing the capsized canoe and the helpless man clinging to it. She had a hard struggle, but her muscles, hardened in the gymnasium, stood the strain. Girl, canoe and man reached the shore safely, and then the man helped his rescuer, who was almost exhausted, out of the water.

When she received a medal as a reward for her pluck, the man she saved applauded her more heartily than anybody else, which was natural.

Pays to Sell Switches.

Dentists and hairdressers are having a busy season just now, after which they will experience a marked depression in trade. It has become a custom for people going out of town for the summer to have their teeth attended to before starting for the vacation, children especially being brought for the annual examination of their teeth.

Hairdressers are rushed with orders for new pompadours and switches and curls that are used so largely during the warm days, when hair refuses to stay in curl. False hair has gone out of fashion, it is true, but many women still cling to the switch, which adds to the abundance, but not to the beauty of their coiffures.

One reason for this is that a hairdresser never loses an opportunity to talk her customer into having a switch if there is any possible ground for it. Switches pay a hairdresser a large profit, as they are quickly made, and there is none of the fine work necessary which has to be put into wigs or the pompadour effects that have been so fashionable.

The curl extending from the low coiffure from the neck was brought into fashion again by Mary Mannering in "Janice Meredith," and Miss Barrymore has accepted it with her bunch of removable curls in "Captain Jinks." They are seen occasionally with evening dress and are only suitable for wear with a low gown which allows them to rest upon the neck.

False hair will never go entirely out of fashion while the hairdressers can prevent it, for it is their best source of revenue. Since the bang went out of style their profits suffered an enormous decrease, as the cutting and curling of those disfiguring fringes yielded them great gain.—New York Sun.

Her Fortune In Dolls.

Miss Nellie Morrison of Salina, Kan., is making a fortune by making dolls from cornhusks. Her trade extends all over the United States and Europe.

When a child, she made these dolls for her little friends. The demand was so great that she sold them for 25 cents each. Now she is 28 years old and sells the dolls by the hundred at the same price.

The first corn carnival held in Atchison in 1895 brought Miss Morrison prominently before the public. Her dolls exhibited there leaped at once into popular favor, and she received more orders than she could possibly fill. She has never been able to find an assistant who could put the cornhusks together as skillfully as she herself does the work.

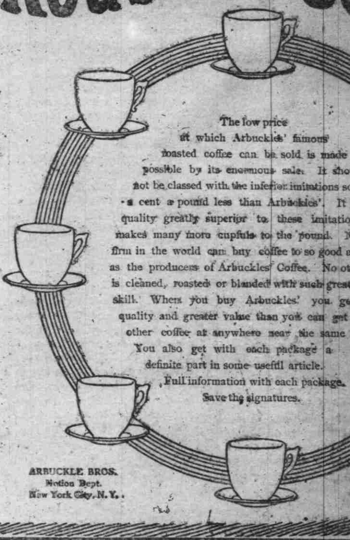
She is kept busy day and night supplying the demand. She has sent the queer dolls to Germany and France

Women Guides In Europe.

For the guidance of the women of Chicago who propose to visit Europe during the summer a journal of that city publishes the following piece of advice and information:

"The Chicago woman who contemplates a trip to London this summer would do well to remember that one institution in the British capital is of special value to the visiting stranger. Reference is made to the women guides, whose express purpose is to supply women tourists with members of their own sex to pilot them safely over the popular tours of England and the British isles—in fact, over any part of the continent of Europe into which the tourist may wish to penetrate. These guides are women of culture and must speak French, German and English, else their applications for these rather agreeable berths will not be considered. They tip the servants, pay the cabby, point out the distinguished people met on the drives or promenades and comment intelligently upon all places of interest as these come into view, with which they must be familiar. They must also be thoroughly 'au courant' with the gossip of the town, must accompany their patronesses to the concert or the theater if desired. They are expected to work [illegible] ... brilliant and interesting companions."

Arbuckles' famous Roasted Coffee



For Feminine Valet In Common.

It is proposed that summer hotels provide a ladies' maid for the convenience of their guests who do not engage the services of one by the month. Since ladies are so generally buttoned or fastened in other ways up the back this season, such help will be a necessity to all smart dressers. A systematic list of daily engagements, with reasonable tips, should be profitable to a young woman understanding her business, says Vogue. This leads up to a long felt want in all hotels and apartments in town, where women are constantly requiring a visiting maid and are willing to pay for such services by the hour, the day or the week. The expense of paying high wages to a maid and then adding the hotel prices for her room and board make it impossible in the majority of cases for any but very rich women to attempt it. The science of living has advanced sufficiently for this condition of things to be corrected at an early day.

Bismarck as a Lover.

From "The Love Letters of Bismarck," just published by Harpers, this extract from a letter to his wife is taken:

"I married you in order to love you in God and according to the need of my heart and in order to have in the midst of the strange world a place for my heart, which all the world's bleak winds cannot chill and where I may find the warmth of the home fire to which I eagerly betake myself when it is stormy and cold without, but not to have a society woman for others, and I shall cherish and nurse your little fireplace, put wood on it and blow and protect it against all that is evil and strange, for next to God's mercy there is nothing which is dearer and more necessary to me than your love and the homelike hearth that stands between us everywhere, even in a strange land, when we are together."

Gifts For Mrs. McKinley.

Among the presents received by Mrs. McKinley during her trip to the west were an exquisitely embroidered bedspread from the Chinese residents of Los Angeles, a profusion of flowers from the women of the southern cities visited, a crate of strawberries grown near Houston, Tex., dates grown and cured in Arizona, rare flowers from the women employed in the mint at New Orleans and a loving cup and a basket of trout from the women of Decatur, Ala., presented through two of Mrs. McKinley's former schoolmates. School children all along the route brought rich floral tributes which they lavished upon the president's wife, who on each occasion acknowledged the tributes in a graceful manner.

Dollars In Odd Shapes.

Under the law a silver dollar may be a grain and a half over weight or a grain and a half under weight, and this "limit of tolerance" applies to all of our silver coins. In other words, they are not allowed to vary more than that much from standard. In the case of goldpieces, the limit is half a grain either way up to the eagle, a variation of as much as one grain being permissible in the $10 and $20 pieces.

Whenever a fresh batch of dollars is turned out at the mint, samples are forwarded to the treasury at Washington, where they are put through a very curious process. Each dollar is first weighed on exquisitely delicate scales to make sure that it is heavy enough and yet not too heavy. Then it is passed between two steel rollers again and again until it is flattened out and transformed into a ribbon of silver—[illegible] parts of the dollar, inasmuch as it is conceivable that one portion might be richer in silver than another. The little disks are shuffled together, and a few of them, taken at random from the lot, are subjected to an assay. Thus the fineness of the material of the dollar is ascertained with absolute accuracy and, the weight having been already determined, the value and correctness of that coin are perfectly known.

The sample pieces having been found correct, it is inferred that the entire batch of dollars is all right.—Saturday Evening Post.

Natural Waters.

All natural waters contain a greater or less amount of mineral matter in solution. Rain water has the smallest percentage of solid [illegible] and therefore it is taken as the standard variety of soft water.

The terms soft and hard, however, as applied to water are scientifically considered purely relative.

Water is usually reckoned to be "soft" when it contains less than one five-thousandth part of its weight of mineral ingredients and "hard" when it contains more than one four-thousandth.

Soft water has the property of easily forming a lather with soap and is therefore suitable for washing purposes, while hard water will only form a lather, and that imperfectly, with considerable difficulty.

A mineral water has more than one two-thousandth of its weight of natural dissolved solids, and a medicinal water is a variety of mineral water containing a varying percentage of dissolved natural solid or gaseous drugs.

Buttered Side Up.

One of the stories which Levi Hutchins, the old time clockmaker of Concord, N. H., delighted to tell related to the youth of Daniel Webster.

"One day," said the old man, "while I was taking breakfast at the tavern kept by Daniel's father, Daniel and his brother Ezekiel, who were little boys with dirty faces and snarly hair, came to the table and asked me for bread and butter.

"I complied with their request, little thinking that they would become very distinguished men. Daniel dropped his piece of bread on the sandy floor, and the buttered side of course was down. He looked at it a moment, then picked it up and showed it to me, saying:

"'What a pity! Please give me a piece of bread buttered on both sides; then if I let it fall one of the buttered sides will be up.'"

Where Americans Are Modest.

The American is shy of proclaiming to the world his deepest sentiments and superstitions, if he has any. He prefers to take himself either as a joke or as a matter of business. Hence when he has a town to name he calls it "Smithville" or "New Bristol" or, as actually happened in the case of one town, "O. K." He may believe in a local ghost, he may love his wife, he has [illegible] admire the view from his windows and [illegible] when torn from the woods and mountains among which he passed his boyhood, but he does not want to put these emotions into the postoffice directory.—Washington Times.

Why He Didn't Go to Church.

A Scottish minister who was indefatigable in looking up his folk one day called upon a parishioner. "Richard," he said, "I hae na seen ye at the kirk for some time and wad like to know the reason."

"Weel, sir," answered Richard, [illegible] ... so, surely [illegible] ... there I got my wife."—Albany Argus.

The Skate Fish.

The ray, or skate fish, has a mouth set transversely across its head, the jaws working with a rolling motion like two hands set back to back. In the jaws are three rows of flat teeth, set like a mosaic pavement, and between these rolling jaws the fish crushes oysters and other mollusks like so many nuts.

Sarcastic.

"Yes, I'm pretty well fixed," remarked the western millionaire. "I began life a barefoot boy and"—

"Of course, but is that unusual out your way?"

"Well, yes. I'm rather an exception."

IN THE WINTER,
(Chase's Plaster is Pain's Master.)

For coughs and colds Benson's Porous Plasters are an incomparably better remedy than any other external or internal. Their medicinal properties enter the skin and go straight to the seat of the disease.

They relieve and cure a "seated" cold without disturbing the system counteracting the stomach. Cough mixtures often nauseate. Benson's Plasters are medicinal in the highest degree, and quickest to act.

Placed on the chest or back or on both at once in serious cases, the good effect is felt immediately. The congestion yields, the cough abates and the breathing improves.

Lung or bronchial affections or kidney disease, are cured with the least possible suffering and loss of time.

Benson's Plasters are immeasurably superior to Belladonna, Strengthening, Capsicum or any other combination in plaster form. They are also preferable to ointments, liniments and salves.

Benson's Plasters have received fifty-four highest awards over all competitors; and more than 5,000 physicians and druggists have declared them to be one of the few trustworthy household remedies. ABOUT TOWN.

Springfield Hotel Burned.

Fire broke out in the Springfield Hotel this morning at about 1:30 o'clock.

The flames had gained such headway before anything could be done, that all efforts were directed to saving the contents of the building and preventing further spread of fire.

The building is almost completely gutted.

Some furniture saved in damaged condition.

Loss $6,000 to $10,000 estimated. Insurance on house and furniture $6,000.

The Jack of Spades.

Behold! Look at me!
Who am I? do you say
What, never heard of me?
Why I am the Jack of Spades.
The biggest card in the deck
By far and away
At the present stage of the game.
'Tis said that great glory
Often comes to ever
The most obscure
If he will but
Take advantage of
His opportunity.
Yesterday I was what—
Nothing.
One among a thousand
Who toil unnoticed.
Or make their living
As best they can
By hook or crook
Or otherwise—
But today, now
Look at me!
Am I of no importance?
Am I not the talked of
Of all the talkers
If not the observed
Of all the observers
Am I not in truth the
Warmest baby in the bunch
Who was it that
Threw that brick that Caused consternation to Spread among the good
People of Springfield?
And caused the doctors
And the drug stats to profit
And the county and the Taxpayers to suffer?
It was I whom you
Have nicknamed the
Jack of Spades.
I am the great originator
Of the small-pox scare
In Springfield.
I brought it from a
Den in South Louisville
To home and friends,
What care I for others!
Misery loves company
You know
And just to think
Of the fame to which
I have arisen.

We publish in this issue the official call for a Republican convention to be held in Springfield on August 10th, for the purpose of nominating candidates for county officers. It is not thought that a full ticket will be named but candidates for certain officers will doubtless be put into the field to make the race against the Democratic nominees.

The First National Bank declared its usual 3 per cent dividend on June 29th. It has laid aside over $1,800 to pay all taxes for the year. It has a surplus fund of $10,000 and profit and loss account of over $4000. All premiums on Government bonds have been charged off. Present premiums on these bonds being worth $2500 to the bank. Deposits over $128,000. Gross earnings for past 6 months over $6,000. This is a remarkably good showing and reflects great credit on the management of the First National.

Death of Mrs. Kays.

Mrs. Sylvia Kays, wife of Mr. Lytle Kays, died at her home on Highland Avenue Monday at two oclock. She had suffered a long time from consumption. All that husband, loving friends and neighbors could do for her relief was done. She bore her sufferings patiently and, when he end came, was willing to go. Appropriate funeral services were held at the Christian church by Rev. H. H. Lloyd. The casket was literally covered with flowers. The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery here. Deceased was fifty-two years old. She leaves a husband, son, two daughters, mother several sisters and brothers to mourn her death. Mrs. Kays was a consistent member of the Christian church, a faithful wife, kind mother and a true friend. She was loved and admired by all who knew her. The family has the sympathy of the entire community.

SMALL-POX.

One Case in the County and Vigorous Effort Being Made to Prevent its Spread.

JACK OF SPADES; HIGH TRUMP.

The community has just experienced its first real small pox scare in many a day and, before going further into details we give the situation up to the hour of going to press. One mild case, patient past the worst stage and on fair road to recovery. Quarantined in camp outside of town with one attendant. Another camp containing about twenty-three people supposed to have been exposed to the disease located at another point three miles north of town, no cases and no indications of small-pox in it.

One man so far as can be learned is responsible for all of the trouble and if all reports are true his actions in the matter have been positively criminal. John Bond who goes by the alias of the Jack of Spades and who is one of a large family by that name living in town left here some weeks ago and found work in South Louisville. About two weeks ago he reappeared again in town and seemed particularly active about circulating about among his acquaintances. He shook hands with people with whom he only had a passing acquaintance and was mixing with the crowd on county court day patronizing the public dinner given by the church people on that day. It had been noticed that Bond had a peculiar eruption on his face but no particular attention was paid to the matter until last Wednesday when several of the local physicians made an examination of the man who had by this time taken to his room at the home of his father on Main Street. The local doctors pronounced the case small pox.

Dr. McCormack of the State Board of Health was immediately telegraphed to and upon his arrival the county Board of Health composed of Drs. Lampton, Smock and J. B. Mudd were instructed to take vigorous means to stamp out the trouble. The patient with one of his brothers as attendant was moved to a tent about a mile and a half east of town and the other inmates of the house were put under a rigid quarantine. Last Sunday another camp was established out south of town and all of those of the Bond household and others who were known to have been exposed were moved to it where they are being guarded and cared for at the expense of the county.

The point that has aroused a good deal of righteous indignation among the citizens is the fact which leaked out that Bond left South Louisville with the disease having contracted it from a family in which he boarded. People with whom he made himself so friendly have by no means a friendly feeling for him now and have all very promptly been vaccinated.

By order of the Board of Health everybody in the town and county are being vaccinated, and every precaution is being taken to prevent an epidemic, and it looks now as if there will not be another case to develop.

The county board of Magistrates met on Tuesday and adopted plans to care for the people in quarantine. Mr. Robt. Noe was appointed commissioner to furnish supplies and attend to other details. The premises in the infected district, have been fumigated and the chances for a spread of the disease look small, and we dont think the situation at all alarming.

Dr. J. H. Lampton resigned as member of the county Board of Health and Mr. A. C. Kimball was appointed by Dr. McCormack to fill the vacancy. This was done Tuesday by telegraph.

Republican Convention

The Republican Committee of Washington Co., Ky., held a meeting at Springfield on the 24th day of June 1901, J. A. Wharton Chairman and Thos. J. Miller temporary secretary and seven other members being present adopted the following resolutions:

1st. That there shall be a primary meeting or convention in each precinct of Washington county on the 3rd day or August 1901, for the purpose of selecting delegates to County Convention, to be held at Springfield Ky., on the 10th day of August 1901. The meeting in each precinct to be held at the voting place of each and every precinct on the date above stated.

2d That each precinct shall have one vote in the county convention for every fifty Republican votes and fraction over 25 cast for Governor at the last November election.

3d. It appearing to the Committee that there was no chairman or secretary legally elected or chosen at the district convention at Polin in this county on the 18th of May 1901 and as there could be no one to legally certify the name of the supposed nominee to the clerk of county for the purpose of placing the name on the ballot at the coming election. We therefore declare said convention at Polin null and void and having no binding effect on anyone. We therefore recommend and direct unanimously that there be a primary from house-to-house in the Brush Grove and Mooresville district for the nomination for Magistrate and Constable if there be a contest on the 25th, 26th and 27th day of July 1901. The candidates for any position in said district have a right to select two good reliable men in each district to canvass and take the vote and send their names to J. L. Wharton chairman or E. S. Mayes, secretary of the Republican Co. Committee on or before July 30, 1901, and from said names selected by each candidate the county committee will select one to represent each candidate in said canvass, and said committee will select the 3d man if two candidates or the odd man if more than five candidates offer for any office. Each and every candidate who enters a race in any district will have to pay his pro rata of the cost of taking the vote and certifying the same to the proper authorities.

Champ Clark.

Congressman Champ Clark, of Missouri, discussing the proposed reorganization of the Democratic party, said, in an interview:

The talk about reorganizing the Democratic party is all idiotic jabber, for the all sufficient reason that it is already thoroughly organized. It is a fact in natural history that the tail cannot wag the dog. The same rule applies to politics. The great body of Democrats are satisfied with Senator James K. Jones, of the national committee, and with his coadjutors on that committee.

The men who stand them in readiness at a moment's notice for the organization to the rescue of self-appointed organizers, than Gen. Tyler had of surrendering Santa Anna on a certain celebrated historic occasion. The rank and file just now are busy with their crops and other vocations, but when over the top comes they will sweep day off to attend to their political interests, and they will continue to do as they always have been, faithful as the needle to the north pole, to the great political tenets of Democracy. Those who bore the brunt of the fight in 1896, 1898 and 1900 are willing to receive back the Democratic prodigals, but not to give them the choicest cut of the veal.

Marion Court.

Quarterly Court was in session last Monday, Judge Kelly presiding. The case of S. L. Shively vs the L. & N. R. R. was tried by jury, Plaintiff sued for $50—value for a cow killed by defendants train. He refused a compromise of $35. After hearing the evidence the jury awarded plaintiff a verdict for $45

Miss Ella Adams brought suit against John Hocker for an amount claimed to be due her for services in nursing defendant's wife during illness. The case was attended with some extra merriment. Once while Dr. Cross by who attended Mrs. Hocker, was testifying, defendant arose from his seat and exclaimed:

"That's a—lie." He made an effort to get to the witness, but was finally quieted. Hocker's father-in-law, Mr. Hays, also got excited during the testimony of Dr. McChord, and contradict what he said. However when the Doctor had concluded his testimony, he went over and demanded an apology, which was fourth coming. Judge Rives for defendant, and W. D. Clay brook, for plaintiff, submitted the case without argument and His Honor, Judge Kelly, decided in favor of plaintiff.—Falcon.

In the year most women have to suffer for a week. At the best this suffering interferes with household activities and social enjoyments. At the worst it shuts the women in a darkened room or confines her to bed. Most women can be comforted by cured of irregularity by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the periods, stops enfeebling drains and cures female weakness.

"All praise is due to you for your wonderful Favorite Prescription," writes Mr. John W. Coffman, Ellisburg, Cape Co., Mo. "My wife suffered with female irregularity; was confined to bed every three weeks. After using two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was cured, and has not suffered any derangement since. Remarkable Collection of Relics

Prof. Morris T. Long, of the Kentucky Institution for Deaf Mutes, of this city, probably has the most valuable and interesting collection of relics and curiosities to be found in Kentucky. A representative of the Advocate yesterday, by a visit to Prof. Long's residence, gained some valuable information concerning the early history of the country and at the same time realized more fully the advancement that has been made in the world of invention.

To describe all the curiosities Prof. Long has in his possession would require several pages of printed matter, therefore only a few of the most interesting will be mentioned.

In the collection is the look of the first jail of Nicholasville, which is said to have been used over a hundred years ago. It is about two feet long and a foot wide with a key almost as big as an ordinary hatchet.

There are five arms of all makes, shapes and ages. Any of the six shot long muskets which passed through the American revolution, are as heavy as two or three guns of modern makes. Along with these are some rare specimens of revolvers Some of them have the hammer on the bottom, some on the top and others on the side of the barrel. From their appearance one would infer that they were inventions of the antediluvian days.

Hand painted on glass are pictures of George Washington and other distinguished men of Continental times, which were made over a century ago. They were presented to Prof. Long by a New York friend

A German pocket knife of about the same age as the pictures is included in the interesting collection

A combination table and book case containing thirteen hundred pieces of wood, was sent to Prof Long by a former student, John Lane, of Jackson, Mississippi. It is hand made and is a very handsome piece of furniture

There is a mahogany sideboard made one hundred and fourteen years in Gerrard county and an old fashioned flax wheel and comb which were used by pioneer settlers of Kentucky

A flexable stone, which can be bent like a large peice of rubber is one of the most remarkable of the collection of curious. A flax comb used by the mother of Vincent Boring and presented to Prof Long by the Congressman, is also worthy of mention.

An Oriental curosity is an ear-ring weighing half a pound, which was formerly worn by a member of the four hundred of Hong Kong, China, and along with it is a boquet holder manufactured and used in the East over a century and a half ago.

An ostrich egg has recently been added. It is about the size of a twenty pound cannon ball.

The above are only a few of the curiosities and relics in the collection, there being among many other things, hundreds of different kinds of eggs, coins, arrow heads and tomahawks.—Danville Advocate.

Horse Sense.

The aptitude shown by animals of the lower order in acquiring human habits is marvelous," said a student who lives in the upper part of the city "and the story that the old fashioned mule had learned to unlock the crib door with a sagged tooth is not, in my judgment at all gether a legend. The chances are that such things have happened. I have known of instances where mules would pull gate pins with their teeth or shove a latch up with their tongues in order to break into the cornfield. There are but few farmers who have not had occasion to observe the same thing. But I have found that horses are more observant than mules. While horses are not as cunning, and not as skilled in the arts of deception and double dealing, I may say they are naturally more sensitive in temperament, and no doubt reason with more delicacy and more accuracy.

"I know of one horse, for instance, owned by one of the electricians of the city, that will not, under any circumstances, step on a steel railroad or go near a swinging wire, because one of her ears was slightly brushed by a live wire several years ago while she had one of her feet on the railing of a car track. She was knocked down by the shock but was not seriously hurt. Since that time she has been extremely careful about where she puts her feet, and keeps her gaze on the ground at all times.

"But I owned a little bay mare several years ago that caused me considerable trouble, and for more than a month I was very much worried by an unaccountable waste of water on my place. It was before I moved to New Orleans. The water rates of the town where I lived are fearful. I had a hydrant in the back yard. Every few nights the water would be turned on in some mysterious way and the yard would simply be flooded during the morning. Failing to discover the cause of the trouble the end of month, when my water bill had doubled I notified the police believing that some malicious person was attempting to satisfy some grudge against me. The chief stationed two men at my place to watch the hydrant. They concealed themselves, and along about midnight they heard a squeaking sound at the hydrant, and in a few minutes the water was sputtering out at a fearful rate. They made a rush for the place, thinking to capture the culprit, but when they got there they found my little mare, with her head stuck down in the flow from the hydrant. She was drinking and dabbling in the water, and seemed to be having a good time generally. They reported the matter to me, and I had no more trouble about my hydrant."—New Orleans Times Democrat.

Novel Method

A unique method to settle a political nomination has been resorted to by William Burges and Buck Hubbard, Candidates for Constable in the Milton Magistrial district, of Madison Co. To avoid the vexation, delay and expense incident to a primary, they decided to make a house to house poll of the district together. So, carrying a locked ballot box along with them, they ride in the same vehicle from farm house to farm house, and after they present their respective claims to a voter, they both withdraw for a few minutes to allow him an opportunity to stamp his ballot and deposit it in the box, then they ride off to the next house. Thus riding eating and sleeping together, they proceed over the district in their friendly rivalry, demonstrating that brotherly love can exist in Kentucky politics It will require about three weeks for them to canvas the district, and the result of the strange political contest is watched with more than local interest.

Oil at Perryville.

Desiring to promote the development of the oil industry in Kentucky, and in view of the great activity in oil interests in this State, I desire to call the attention to the fact that we have in this locality what is considered by experts as good oil territory. There is near here an oil well 745 feet in depth, in which oil is found in pockets at various debths. The well is near a branch flowing into the famous Doctor's Fork of battle field notoriety. Near the well is a small basin dug out of solid rock, supposed to have been formed by the Indians as it was a great resort for them in early times to obtain the oil, as they believed it possessed great medical properties. They however have no tradition as to the origin of the basin which leads to the supposition that it was formed by the prehistoric race. The stones along this brook are saturated with oil, and when ignited burn with a soft, brilliant light This well is owned by S. D. Bottom. A noted oil expert prospected and reported that the indications were very good and gave it as his opinion that should they bore 1 500 feet, oil certainly would be obtained in paying quantities.—Perryville cor. Danville Advocate.

The Toy Graphophone

A Graphophone that children can play with and enjoy has been placed on the market. Nothing can bring greater happiness to a child, It is the most wonderful and fascinating toy ever invented. It repeats Mother Goose rhymes and nursery tales, sings the songs of childhood and plays martial music for the boys. In operation it is as simple as the turning of a wheel. There is no mechanism to get out of order, no springs to wind, no screws to weaken.

Unlike other types of Graphophones the Toy uses a flat disk record. These records come in sets of five each, one set being furnished with each machine. Other sets containing different selections can be easily obtained.

The Toy Graphophone gives no idea of the beauty and volume of reproductions of Graphophones that use cylinders instead of disks. But it serves admirably as a toy to amuse and instruct children. Send $5.00 to the Columbia Phonograph Co., 88 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., and the Toy Graphophone will be sent you xpressage prepaid.

Dip The Lambs

If any of our readers who have gone into the sheep business, even in a small way, do not yet realize the importance of dipping their lambs, the sooner they wake up on this subject the better it will be for both them and the lambs. The ticks go for the lambs as soon as the ewes are sheared and make life a burden for the little fellows, seriously interfering with their thrift. These pests can be held in check very easily by dipping the lambs and the sooner it is done the better.

Three Horses sold for $2,900.

Mr. Rebel Goddard sold, Monday to Mr. John T. Hughes, of Lexington, for Mr. Finn's a millionaire of Milwaukee, a span of mares (Mennie G. and Juliet Maxwell) and a gelding (Willwood) all by the noted Red Leaf $2,900. The mares were 4 and 3 years old and the gelding was 3 Mr. Finn's complimented Mr. Goddard's stable of horses much and said he had never seen before as fine a lot of horses by one sire.—Harrodsburg Sayings.

A bad complexion generally results from inactive liver and bowels. In all such cases, DeWitt's little Early Risers produce gratifying results. Haydon & Robertson.

A Mule as a Life Saver.

The mine mule knows a thing or two quite as well as does the army mule. In one of the mines in the Pittsburg district the ever patient mule proved himself possessed of an almost human sense of coming danger. One morning, when the full shift was at work there occurred an unusual thing. The air currents had seemed defective, and there was a restless feeling among the miners, something like the uneasiness of live stock before a storm. A few days previous a chamber had been closed on account of gas, and the men were instinctively thinking of what that might mean. Suddenly there was a clatter of hoofs, and a mule appeared. Its long ears were quivering, and its intelligent eyes were full of terror.

It gave a shrill bray and then was gone down the entry, broken traces flying after it. The men looked at one another, and then the feverishness of the air moved them with one impulse. Dropping picks, they fled precipitately, making a headlong dash through the labyrinth for the open air. With scared faces other miners joined them, and while they were wondering what it all meant a dull, deep explosion went rumbling through the hollow back of them, followed by wave upon wave of noxious vapors. Then they understood. When the bodies of the few poor men who had been hopelessly entrapped were recovered, another was tenderly carried out with theirs—that of the little gray mule that sounded the warning.—Leslie's Weekly.

Serpent Worship.

It was probably in the character of a healer that the serpent was regarded by the Milesians, since most of the localities of Ireland connected with traditions of these reptiles destroyed by St. Patrick were esteemed places of healing. To these spots, generally holy wells, the people of the poor and ignorant classes still resort as pious pilgrims in relief from their infirmities. They drink of the sacred waters and circle about the fount on their knees while repeating their prayers, and it is a curious fact, as we are informed by an old time traveler in Ireland, that this circling was formerly done "groveling on hands and knees or even lying flat on the ground and writhing like a snake." This must undoubtedly have been a relic of the ancient rites, though the people had not the slightest idea of its origin or even that such a religion had ever existed on their island.

In the same way they still on Belfane eve (Bel-time, or Bel's fire) kindle "bale fires" on the summit of every hill and send flaming wheels rolling down their sides, though ignorant that they are celebrating a day consecrated to Bel, or Baal, by their Phœnician and Irish ancestors, who observed it in a precisely similar manner.—New Lippincott.

Two Inch Heels.

Parisians have evidently rebelled at last against the common sense shoe. For awhile the English shoe was voted "the thing" in the smart set, but heels are now worn higher than they have been for many years. A two inch heel is not uncommon, and the bootmakers say that they are making them to order much higher. "To be worn on all occasions" is the natural question. "Yes," they say: "we have no orders for low heels save for golf or other sports." The high heel that comes on walking shoes is straighter and much stronger than the Louis XV heel. It appears to be as comfortable as a high heel ever can be. Here it is called the "military" heel.

Miss Baden-Powell's Autumn.

Miss Baden-Powell, sister of the hero of Mafeking, is devoted to animal pets, and she has a collection of these absolutely unique in London. In the drawing room, at 8 St. George's place, Hyde park, there is a fine aviary; two large show beehives are stationed in the window, the exit of the bees being toward the park, of course, but glass insets allow their buzzing operations to be perfectly seen by the occupants of the room.

Miss Baden-Powell has also a number of birds which fly about the house and are not confined in any way.—Philadelphia Record.

CYCLING ROUTES.

Will All Lead to Buffalo Next Summer.

For the accommodation of the large number of cyclists who contemplate touring awheel to Buffalo and the Pan-American Exposition and Niagara Falls next summer a series of "trunk line" cycling routes is being compiled. They will probably be as follows:

1. New York and Albany to Buffalo (via the Hudson River, the valley of the Mohawk and the cycle paths of Central and Western New York).

2. New York to Buffalo (via the Delaware Water Gap, Scranton, Elmira, Corning and the cycle paths of the Southern tier of counties).

3. Boston and New England points to Buffalo (connecting with Route No. 1 at Albany).

4. Boston and New England points to Buffalo (via Providence, New London, steamboat to Greenport, Long Island; cycle paths of Suffolk County to Brooklyn, connecting with Route No. 1 or 2 at New York).

5. Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia to Buffalo (connecting with Route No. 2 at the Delaware Water Gap or Scranton).

6. St. Louis and Chicago to Buffalo (via Toledo, Cleveland and Erie). The road from Erie to Buffalo along the south shore of Lake Erie, through the Grape belt, has been called the finest 100 mile straightaway in America.

7. Chicago and Milwaukee to Buffalo (via steamboat across Lake Michigan to Grand Haven, Detroit, through Canada, Niagara Falls).

8. Cincinnati to Buffalo (connecting with Route No. 6 at Cleveland).

W. SHELTON BELL.

A Blow From Behind.

"One winter, when things were rather slow in New York city—it was just before John L.'s time"—said the old pugilist, "we made up a little party and hired a hall to one of the fighting towns not far away. We advertised a purse of $10 for any one who could stay on his feet against our men for five rounds. It was safe money, although when two or three of the boys came in at the same time we had all we could handle.

"But one night a fellow as big as the side of a house came along, and we smelled trouble. We put him up against the heaviest man in our party, who, though he fully tipped the scales at 180 pounds, had two good hands and a head that you couldn't hurt with a pile driver. But the stranger was no slouch, and at the end of the fourth round we began to worry about the tenner.

"The ring was on the stage at the front of the hall, and at the rear of the stage there were two windows. So I says to our man as I sponged his mouth, 'Work him over to one of the windows.'

"It wasn't no easy job, but he did it before time was half up, and as the dumped him up near the window he got a crack in the head from behind that dumped him in a heap. That's the way we saved our ten.

"But the funny part of it is that our champeen had caught the local guy on the jaw the same moment, and we could never persuade him that it wasn't himself that secured the knockout."—New York Sun.

An Animated Parcel.

Duncan Ross, the Scotch athlete, brought to New York with him some years ago a valuable bull terrier, famous for the blue ribbons he had won in India. One day Ross lived across the Harlem river, but his business took him daily to the lower part of New York. Invariably he was accompanied by his other by the bull terrier. As it was known that he always came down town on the elevated railroad, his friends wondered, knowing the embargo placed upon dogs, how he procured transit for the bull terrier.

A Bold Defense.

"An enlisted man once threw the president of a court martial in a difficult position," says a writer in Cassell's Magazine. "The court martial was trying a soldier for some fault or other. When the evidence—and it took an unusually long time—had been given, the president asked the prisoner if he had anything to say in his defense.

"'Well, sir,' said the man, 'I can't see how this 'ere court can sentence me, for Major Jones 'as been reading a paper under the table the 'ole time.'

"Major Jones 'as been making me into a karicatoor on the blotting pad, and as for Lieutenant Brown, he won't 'ol his countenance a year, and don't count anyways!"

Powers of Endurance.

"When my grandfather was a young man," said the boy with a snub nose, "he could run ten miles without stopping."

"I heard my grandfather make a prayer 26 minutes long once at a prayer meetin," responded the boy with the dirty face, "an it didn't faze him."—Chicago Tribune.

THE OFFSPRING OF HEREDITARY BLOOD TAINT.

Scrofula is but a modified form of Blood Poison and Consumption. The parent taint is handed by either will see in the child the same disease manifesting itself in the form of swollen glands of the neck and throat, catarrh, weak eyes, offensive sores, scrofulous abscesses and other loathsome skin and blood diseases in any of Scrofula. There may be no external signs for a long time after the disease develops slowly in some cases, but the poison is in the blood and will break out at the first favorable opportunity. S. S. S. cures this wasting, destructive disease by first purifying and building up the blood and stimulating and invigorating the whole system.

I. M. Bonin, 211 Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., says: "My little boy was a terrible sufferer from scrofula. From this wound the glands on the right of his face became enlarged and one of the doctors here said elsewhere would be required to cure it. We decided to try S. S. S., and a few bottles cured her entirely."

S S S makes new and pure blood to nourish and build up the whole body, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula. It overcomes all forms of blood poison, whether inherited or acquired, and no remedy so thoroughly and effectively builds up the system, purifies the blood, or your child has inherited some blood taint, take S. S. S. and get the blood in good condition and prevent any trouble further down.

Our book and write our physicians about your case, or blood trouble and they will make no charge whatever for medical advice.

OUR GROWTH.

Paid Certificate Holders to September, 1898 ..... $ 681 80
" " " May, 1900 ..... 72,000 00

The Lexington Investment Company does business on a life insurance plan by rev ising the plan.

Live Insurance Companies pay large sums to the few of their members who die.

We pay a smaller sum to all of our members as their compensation.

The Lexington Investment guarantees to pay to its members three dollars for every one received from them.

The Lexington Investment Co. is an improvement over all other plans of investment Cos.

1. Because it pays more money.

2. Because after the third payment the member is eligible to receive a cash income which increases his payments in the meantime, decreasing until the certificate is killed.

3. Because it redeems its coupons in a regular consecutive order and has a so called "funeral drawings" or lottery features attached to it by which it is possible to have the few at the expense of the many.

4. Because after three years, if the certificate is not killed, the holder may obtain a "paid up" certificate and cease paying on same, his remaining coupons being redeemed thereafter in their regular order.

Our strength, like life insurance, lies in our membership; but unlike Life Insure our field of business is unlimited, as everybody is eligible to membership. No medical examination required
